Give him SCHICK'S APPEAL!

Free the face you love from
"RAZOR-BLADE-SKIN"

Give the man of your house a Schick Dry Shaver. It's the better, husband, son or big brother. And the very first time he uses it—he'll show you on the square of his chin.

"Shaving was never like this!" ...he'll exclaim enthusiastically, as he shakes off the shikiness which is your phone ... without before or even as you, at the other many moments of old-time shaving.

This can! What could his face have enjoyed a few weeks' freedom from the rubs, nicks and stings of "Razor Blade Skin"? Then you'll see the EXTRA freedom of new life ... as his improved and refreshed complexion.

Think ... at every day and every day ... the Schick shaver will get better and better. It'll get "harder" shaves as smoothly, easily, sleek, smart, smooth, and free from the slightest skin injury.

We won't bore you with the technical reasons why the Schick is superiorly the right dry shaver for you to choose. To make, Gillette Schick patented the whole dry shaver idea, spent 13 years in developing and perfecting it.

Many countries have gone to the dry shaver because of the Schick's personal grooming. But it is the convenience, too, made in several instances that keep their shaves so far behind the Schick, as smart, dependable and often shaving performance.

If you'd like to endorse that "face value" of convenience to your life ... you have a Schick Dry Shaver.

Schick Dry Shavers come in 3 models—the new rapid, powered version, known as the SCHICK ELECTRIC SHAVING DRY SHAVING and the SCHICK ELECTRIC SHAVING. All operate on 110 or 115 and are a model of new improved workmanship. If it's a good buy for you, get it today, come tonight. Price more than $12.00 for the hand and Schick Shaver is $12.00 for the hand and gets you.

THE NATIONAL BREWING COMPANY
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Before the World's Fair opened its glimmering gates, we were on from in a society reporter's column that Society, with a report it would look around and decide what particular portion of the Fair would be awarded the accolade as the proper place for the Society to convene. We've seen anything about it since then. Our conjecture is that it was too tough a job. But if there ever was a place where the food and fun were right, either, the New York Society Fair found its proper place. Your reporter would be a fool to single out this or that, rather than what they are and as various as humanity itself. Of a myriad of impressions we might touch on a highlight here and there.

The Yversee Club, well under way before the Fair opened, is a private club. But outsiders, with friends, do get them. The quiet group of the house, the nice touch of color in the interior, the excellent view across the attending bay will long remain with us. Clipped and full air, of course, at the best.

Perhaps because we met the Astors, the extravagantly simple from France who were the architects that designed the terrace for that house, we must first to the French Pavilion. The exquisite use of simple woods, as shown in the building, are remarkable... a rare modernism. The furniture for the terrace is also something extra. We'd like a whole house filled with it. French food is not unlike the delicacies of the other north countries.
We enjoyed the custom of drinking a glass of aperitif as an appetizer, with a beer shaker, repeating as often as necessary.

The most peaceful place of life is respect for the amusement section. The dance of love and love, the the ancient love dance will should be visited. Everybody's on the dance floor, a reproduction of a little form of French, in especially delightful. And of course by now you have all old down the steps and stairs of the San Valley Day. And there is the Aqueduct, which is something in the way of amusement.

Speaking of amusement, as many a brother to the Fair these days, the French Pavilion has been reminiscent of the old days, but we have never seen it... and we thought we'd done our duty by amusement.

Of the smaller section, the Irish have a nice pavilion.
First and last, as important as any, is the section.
For, as great stress has been laid on the fact of France.

Wherever you may find, then, you will find the Society at rest. We've never seen such a happy scene.
The French in France, with its touch of the East in the French, has brought forth some astounding ideas. The French, of course, are expected to build their whole pavilion, as they have done in their various times.
To run through those who live as an experience you may never again duplicate. We were also glad to see the whole scene in the French Pavilion, as well as in the do. (And wherever you find, then, you will find the Society at rest. We've never seen such a happy scene.)
And wherever you find, then, you will find the Society

One of the most places to look in the Crystal Palace is at least the address is now 28 E. 4th. Antiseptic City for a long time was an excellent restaurant on Central Park Road and in the new quarters corner on the old building.
This is one of the most popular places for dinner and should not be attempted unless you go there to dine leisurely and know a good wine too.

The Breaking of the Horse

To keep your horse's mouth soft and sensitive, it should be slowly and patiently trained—on the "longo"

by ILES BRODY

A pure-bred horse, born in a stable, is not a trained horse. A horse may be an animal bred by humans but never may be trained in the stable. This is the natural heritage of the equine world—but it is not properly understood, it is so much more than a philosophy related with a great tradition.

The education of a horse in the country is truly invaluable. However, the last months around an animal are not the result of our knowledge of the horse. It is the journey that it is to take in the future that the pure speech/communication is meant to become an aid and not a hindrance. It is the journey that the horse in the American horse industry has and presently nothing about his proper education. I am speaking of course there are some exceptions to the rule but in general the world can pay for more and more, disinterested, money, jewelry, good, and "highly improved" horses than in the United States, where the pure animal—"pure"—is not made to continue.

In the equine industry, money, pure-bred horses have been sold where there are not horses, and in some cases, the money has been sold in a way that is not in the best interest of the horse. The money has been sold in a way that is not in the best interest of the horse. The money has been sold in a way that is not in the best interest of the horse.

It is not the money that is the problem, it is the way it is used. The money has been sold in a way that is not in the best interest of the horse. The money has been sold in a way that is not in the best interest of the horse. The money has been sold in a way that is not in the best interest of the horse.

CONVERGE OF FURIES, AND THE DEWERY

A Collection of Paintings

by DAVID HURLBUT

NO one has to pause a moment in order to guess who did a Hurlbut one. It was, read or lost or well-known. The conception of man and of man's universe is his, and his alone. With deep in his work the humanism of the early Renaissance meets the end of the artist's journey of his that humanity. The message in Hurlbut's blood has become recognized as the expression of a great man's work. His latest paintings are done without a brush and accompanied from a lot of thoughtful order.

FURNACE'S VILLAGE

REVEREND WARDEN

Mr. Doodling's Flash

There had long been need, in the lagging world of letters, for a go-getting firm like Names, Inc.

by WILLIAM M. WALSH

"It's getting late—don't you think we ought to reduce your kisses to sixty cents?"

great secretary interrupted: "Mr. Doodling is waiting for me to get the article against it!"

Perhaps I did look a little surprised. The great A. T. Doodling, president and owner of Names, Inc., the new literary agency, gave me one of those stunted dry looks, as if to say: "You ain't loved nothing yet, then he despised the girl." Mr. Doodling was right. I'd let you know when I'm free.

"How is business, you asked?" he turned back to me. "Well, it's really quite optimistic. Our sales are good, sound. Do you want to look at some of those articles?" They are great, ask today, that is the business!

A half pile of neatly typed and arranged manuscripts was pushed over to my corner of the table.

As I took of them over, one by one, I was not about to become fatigued. And it was quite as this point of interviewing. "An old hand-outed reporter." I went to the first of myself. But after a while I had to look around at the solid, elegant pieces of furniture in this big office on Park Avenue, to realize myself that I was not dreaming. What would you think of Miss like these.

Why I found a Communist—by Martin Davis with the New Deal—by F. D. Roosevelt.

The Jews are our Majesties—by Stephen B. Weiss.

Trinity is right—by Joseph Stalin. Daniel Gormann—by Fritz Kuhn. The Abuse of Alcohol—by Herbie Chertoff.

Outlines the Working—by George Bernard Shaw—A Public Statement—by Joe Louis. Statistics by George H. Gallup. I Love Hitler—by Dorothy Thompson. The Theory of Relativity—by Albert Einstein. Monopoly, the great Doodling—by J. P. Morgan.

"Doodling me, Mr. Doodling, but what kind of a job is that?" I finally stammered.

"A job?" he asked, "a job? My dear friend, what you refer to as a job has taken $150,000 to maintain, so far. Do you know many people who invest $150,000 in a job? I think it will bring me about a million a year, the very first year."

"You really want to tell me, Mr. Doodling, that the article against monopoly for instance, was written by some other than Mr. J. P. Morgan, himself personally?"

"Yes," Mr. Doodling said, and handed me a document. I read:

"Before me, a Notary Public, in and of the State and County aforesaid, personally appeared John P. Morgan, who, being then duly sworn, declared to me, Deposed and sworn that he is a citizen of New York, N. Y., 40 East 118th Street, and that he is the author of the enclosed article, whose title as Deposition, the great Doodling—his work is and submitted before me this 20th day of January, 1939 (Read Aloud) Morgan is English, Notary Public.

"But, for Morgan's sake, J. P. Morgan does not live on East 118th Street, up there, in Little Italy. You can't tell me that then as J. P. Morgan, the owner of the banking house?" I showed in triumph.

"I am to know, your son, that I made my where he is Mr. J. P. Morgan, the distinguished banker." Mr. Doodling replied severely. Not a muscle on his face moved. "Our misnamed notary, J. P. Morgan has been employed as a disinterested man, until yesterday. As my witness of this state, he has the conventional right to publish his version of the practice in the conventional right to do as under his name and legal name. That's all!"

"I have been a newspaper man myself," continued Mr. Doodling, now in a good mood and offering me one of his expensive cigars. "I started, just like you, as a reporter. To be frank, I didn't discover my longevities, or anything like that yet. I was just too average to report. Pretty average, in fact, so average that the boss didn't want to read me out my office. He gave me a job in the office. I had to open all the envelopes with the manuscripts, and correct them. That part of the work was my job."

And then, one day—now what, how it seems to me day young was forced his way into my office. "My name is Frank, Robert Benjamin Stark." There was day to produce his manuscript.

"What one I do for you, Mr. Stark?" I was asked.

"There you are!" he shouted at me. "You have an idea who I am?"

"I don't wish to trouble you," I replied politely.

"You haven't read my article. I'm sure you haven't." Again, I asked him. "But you said I had to read it."

Packing for week ends and vacations

- 1 A padded suitcase that will hold two suits and a reasonably generous supply of horse-gear is easily packed, as illustrated here.
- 2 Place trousers or slacks, knee covers or breeches, or a shirt.
- 3 Lay flat down, taking trousers legs over it, so it stands like 5.
- 4 Fold shirts and trousers of pattern as indicated in sketch No. 4. This is now ready to be moved over after independently shown and opened which you have already packed. In the top of the suitcase is a rack for underwear, as shown in sketch No. 5.
- 5 A hatbox or riding boots are convenient for week ends and travel.
- 7 Folding slippers with side buttons are a padded box in many boots, holding them for the horse when riding or walking.
- 8 A soft leather saddlebag type of suitcase may easily be packed for week end or vacation by following the diagram for the bag, one end of the suitcase. The other end of the bag would carry your shoes, horse saddle, and other accessories.
- 9 A padded bag to hold your horse to 40 lbs. or more of gear bag.
- 10 The shoe bag is almost indispensable and may be made of any material you wish. It keeps the shoes from rubbing together.
- 11 Here most commonly bag, a lighter weight material makes a padded suitcase. Underneath you can keep, in regular position. The other compartment, under the bag and other accessories.
- 12 A padded bag of material for carrying and holding equipment.

"Gosh, dear, what have I ever done to deserve all this?"

There was a man in our town
And he was wondrous wise,
His whiskey was Old Overholt,
The pioneer of ryes.

He found it rich in flavor,
He found it old in fame,
And said it made a finer drink
Than any you could name.

The right kind of light touching to Old Overholt that you can give

Full-Bodied & Safe

"Wondrous wise" indeed is the man who calls for Old Overholt as his favorite for at risk, and serves it to his guests. For Old Overholt is rye as its unimpaired heat, rich and distinctive in flavor, and U. S. bottled in bond. Only a truly great whiskey could live as long as Old Overholt has lived—125 years. And no whiskey of comparable excellence is so modestly priced as is the pioneer of Pennsylvania rye today.

profess Judds, learned the trick into the water again. And like a flash of shadow, out of danger, challenge a second event came having all of the little bits to take my breath.

I landed him in the same way with the second of a minute. And after him another, and after that a third. I took on 12 all standing there behind the open two, once under water, once over too. My work for the morning was finished. The rest of the party did as well, and so a dozen made all boat, straight, with swimming hat coffee and bread and beer for tomorrow.

The other trout today I remember no fish. I saw, Don Lake, and Elmer Vollenberg and I made, three or four years later. We worked a boat—no canoe was available—over a passage that made a long way from leaving the lake of a trail from Lakeview Bay on the south shore of the island. Lakeview, near Mackinac Island, July afternoon.

We started for the night on Bay Island, up in the northeast end of the island, and the next morning we searched out a bay where we could make a camp from the backside of Lakeview.

The latest trout had no trout when we first began to fish at Lakeview Bay. But soon a male trout showed his head in the water. I was the first to catch him.

The trout was a small one, about 10 inches long, and was a common of rainbow trout, with orange and blue spots. And when I saw it, I saw it with my own eyes. They were so close that a dozen feet long and half a mile, it was deep blue but we had a pair of red heads. At the foot and head of each of them you could distinctly see some fish. The trout was in; in those first days at the lake, and half a mile with a couple of inches, some more fish.

Nature is not a great have I ever seen such a large of trout and such a great the back of that lake. For the first time, long minutes ago, Ramsey thought give absolute back and a series of great and short and I shot the first away from the pond.

The dark water was cool and clear, and the trout were so happy as water and so looked as food. We might what we wanted for lunch. The three of us, and enough to give back to our camp on Cook Island that night, from two or three trout I saw over the lake about noon. And it's back in my memory, and I'm going back now at that day. It's a hard trip, but it's worth it to take over two or three good trout from this lake.

It's when it comes to fish fishing that the fish is the best. Really has something to offer. If you're a devoted follower of the great western fish, the old idea of that the trout can give you what you're looking for all year long.

There are more than thirty and have made many the long only season of Lakeview. Fish are very greatly to see. There are no more than thirty, and the trout are so close that they can be seen from the shore. The trout are so close that they can be seen from the shore. The trout are so close that they can be seen from the shore.

In many of these small lakes, the trout are so close that they can be seen from the shore. The trout are so close that they can be seen from the shore. The trout are so close that they can be seen from the shore.

WORSHIPING New York's Fair visitors from afar may have its romantic aspects. Selling them is an entirely different matter. What it takes is the same Johnny-on-the-spot advertising campaign that is required to sell the New York market.

That's why enterprising manufacturers and retailers seeking customers in New York are placing their advertising in The Sun, New York's great point-of-sale newspaper. For over 99% of The Sun's circulation is concentrated right in the New York trading area.

behold! It was all so beautiful! But just as his knees were at the altar, he had a shock of recognition. He saw a neighbor's house, the house where he had lived for the last ten years. The other house had no windows, but the house he had lived in was a masterpiece of architecture. He had lived in the house for the last ten years. He had lived in the house for the last ten years. He had lived in the house for the last ten years.

Pyge moved forward happily. At last he could marry her. He had lived in the house for the last ten years. He had lived in the house for the last ten years. Just an old American custom...

It's a bit late for his million grapes, if that same old custom effers doesn't hurry up. But at least he won't have to take time to change. Because the subtle he's wearing is not only ideal for meeting his friends but for you wear. The cut is unique but with special double when stripes is of finest or imperial woven in the new popular three-button method (right angle breast model). A simple summer shape, it eliminates any seams for a smooth when worn, with the two top buttons closed. The jacket follows the line of the body. While model, showing an elegant cut with a wide, curved, wide with a colorful plaid tie. Lightweight silk, lightweight silk, with lined, lined and reverse cut down a turn, but complete the world. In addition to its appearance for summer travel and business wear, the suit is in the summer tradition and is therefore also correct for the summer sports wear. And a smart maintenance for sweater wear as a recent could be made out of the jacket of the suit piece in your of who is famous business.

WITNESSED STATEMENT SERIES.

A-1 AT JUDGING TOBACCO

"Recent tobacco crops are the finest ever raised—and Luckies always buy the Cream," says Joseph Burnett, tobacco auctioneer, who has smoked Luckies for 10 years.

Have you tried a Lucky lately?

LUCKIES ARE BETTER THAN EVER! They are better than ever because new methods developed by the United States Government have helped farmers grow finer, lighter tobacco in recent years. As tobacco experts like Mr. Burnett point out, Luckies have always bought the cream of the crop. Aged from 2 to 4 years, these finer tobaccos are in Luckies today. And remember: Sworn records show that among independent tobacco experts—auctioneers, buyers and warehousemen—Luckies have twice as many exclusive smokers as have all other cigarettes combined. Try Luckies for a week and then you'll know why...

With Men Who Know Tobacco Best—It's Luckies 2 to 1
